

RETURNING TO WORK

As more and more people are thankfully able to return to work, the need for social distancing measures will expand to offices, factories and a whole range of other work environments.

With demand for many clear plastics already exceeding supply, the need for alternatives is becoming greater every day so, at our UK offices we're using Alupanel and Multishield for screens between desks.

Alupanel's choice of colours offers great design options whilst Multishield has the benefit of being magnetically receptive and the option of a dry-wipe whiteboard coating. Both are easily fabricated and can be printed direct to provide a sleek, smooth one-piece screen that can have company logos or other information added for an impressive, bespoke result.

To help preserve stocks of clear plastics, our panels can also be used as frames for counter-top and floor standing screens, using clear plastic only where the visibility is really needed.
